

A scatter plot with 15 points. A subset of 7 points is connected by lines, forming a graph structure. The graph consists of a central triangle with three lines extending from its vertices to other points, and a separate edge connecting two points at the top left.